Drummond Woodsum has over 45 years of experience representing employers of all sizes in contract negotiations with their unionized staff. Our specialized consultants and attorneys act as chief negotiators at the bargaining table for our clients or as advisors during bargaining and represent clients through the statutory dispute resolution procedures of mediation, fact finding and interest arbitration.

We represent clients before the National Labor Relations Board and state labor relations boards on a wide array of issues, including grievance representation, and provide direct assistance to public and private employers faced with organizing campaigns.
