Lawyers have turned to Drummond Woodsum when they need legal advice and representation. From sole practitioners to large law firms, Drummond Woodsum has advocated on their behalf before licensing panels and ethics boards. In addition, Drummond Woodsum defends health care providers, insurers, and other professionals before licensing boards.

Our attorneys understand that apparently “minor” violations can have lasting impact on a professional’s career. We never forget the long-term effects of a proceeding. We have often been successful negotiating a discreet resolution before allegations are made public. However, when a hearing is necessary, our lawyers are prepared to present the best case aggressively and professionally.
